Folger's Shakespeare Library at Washington, D.C. (U.S.A.), with its four hundred thousand books in all the known languages of the world, is an ample proof of the Bard's universality. How translations of Shakespeare's work in world languages compare with each other? How the different cultural appropriations of that work come out in those various ways of life? These questions and various allied issues arise in the mind demanding scholarly investigations. With these thoughts in view, a three-day conference of interested scholars drawn from different Indian and European languages is proposed to be organized by the Dept. of English, Jai Narain Vyas University, Jodhpur (Rajasthan), in collaboration with The Shakespeare Association, India, on 16, 17 & 18 November, 2015 at Jodhpur. In view of Shakespeare's 400th Death Anniversary in 2016, the Conference attains an added significance. Bringing together the various versions of Shakespeare in Indian and European languages, placing them side by side for comparative views, for sure, will be a rewarding exercise in scholarship.

Some of the proposed sub-themes are as follows:

- a) Shakespeare in Hindi

- b) Shakespeare in Punjabi
- c) Shakespeare in Urdu
- d) Shakespeare in Tamil
- e) Shakespeare in Telgu
- f) Shakespeare in Malyalam
- g) Shakespeare in Kanada
- h) Shakespeare in Bengali
- i) Shakespeare in Marathi
- j) Shakespeare in Gujarati
- k) Shakespeare in Russian
- l) Shakespeare in Spanish
- m) Shakespeare in German
- n) Shakespeare in French
- o) Shakespeare in Italian
- p) Shakespeare in Hungarian
- q) Shakespeare in Dutch
- r) Validity in Translation
- s) Validity in Reappropriation
- t) Relevance of Comparative Literature Studies

Please join the Conference and make your individual contributions. The topics for presentation are by no means limited to the suggested themes, sub-themes and languages. They are only examples of the engagements that scholars can have with the subject.
